Tomasz K., 52 —

• Master Painter •

sets the rhythm, demonstrates, steadies trembling first strokes, drinks bergamot tea.

Ewa N., 34 —

• Studio Host •

greets, hangs coats, hangs coats, prepares palettes, writes handwritten reminders the day before class.

Piotr M., 28 —

• Weekend Mentor •

• visiting painter •

leads two drop-in evıop-in evenings per month, keeps the door open on Saturdays.

one master + one host + one visiting painter • the door is never closed alone

ukończcoie - ATELIER 6

Agnieszka, 38 — Saska Kępa · product manager ·

booked the course as a birthday gift to herself after seven years of only reading about painting.

Marek, 61 — Żoliborz · retired engineer ·

wanted to learn from a person, not a YouTube tutorial; his granddaughter painted alongside him for one class.

Julia, 24 — Praga-Południe · architecture student ·

came to re-learn how to draw without a ruler and left with three canvases for her wall.

three different lives · same quiet room · one finished painting each

Praga neighbourhood

handwritten postcards through letterboxes one Saturday evening every month

Monthly letter

one story about one student one recipe for Polish linden tea never promotional

Instagram

one photograph of a canvas a week captions in Polish
no reels · no promo grids

Bookstores + cafes partners

three in Praga
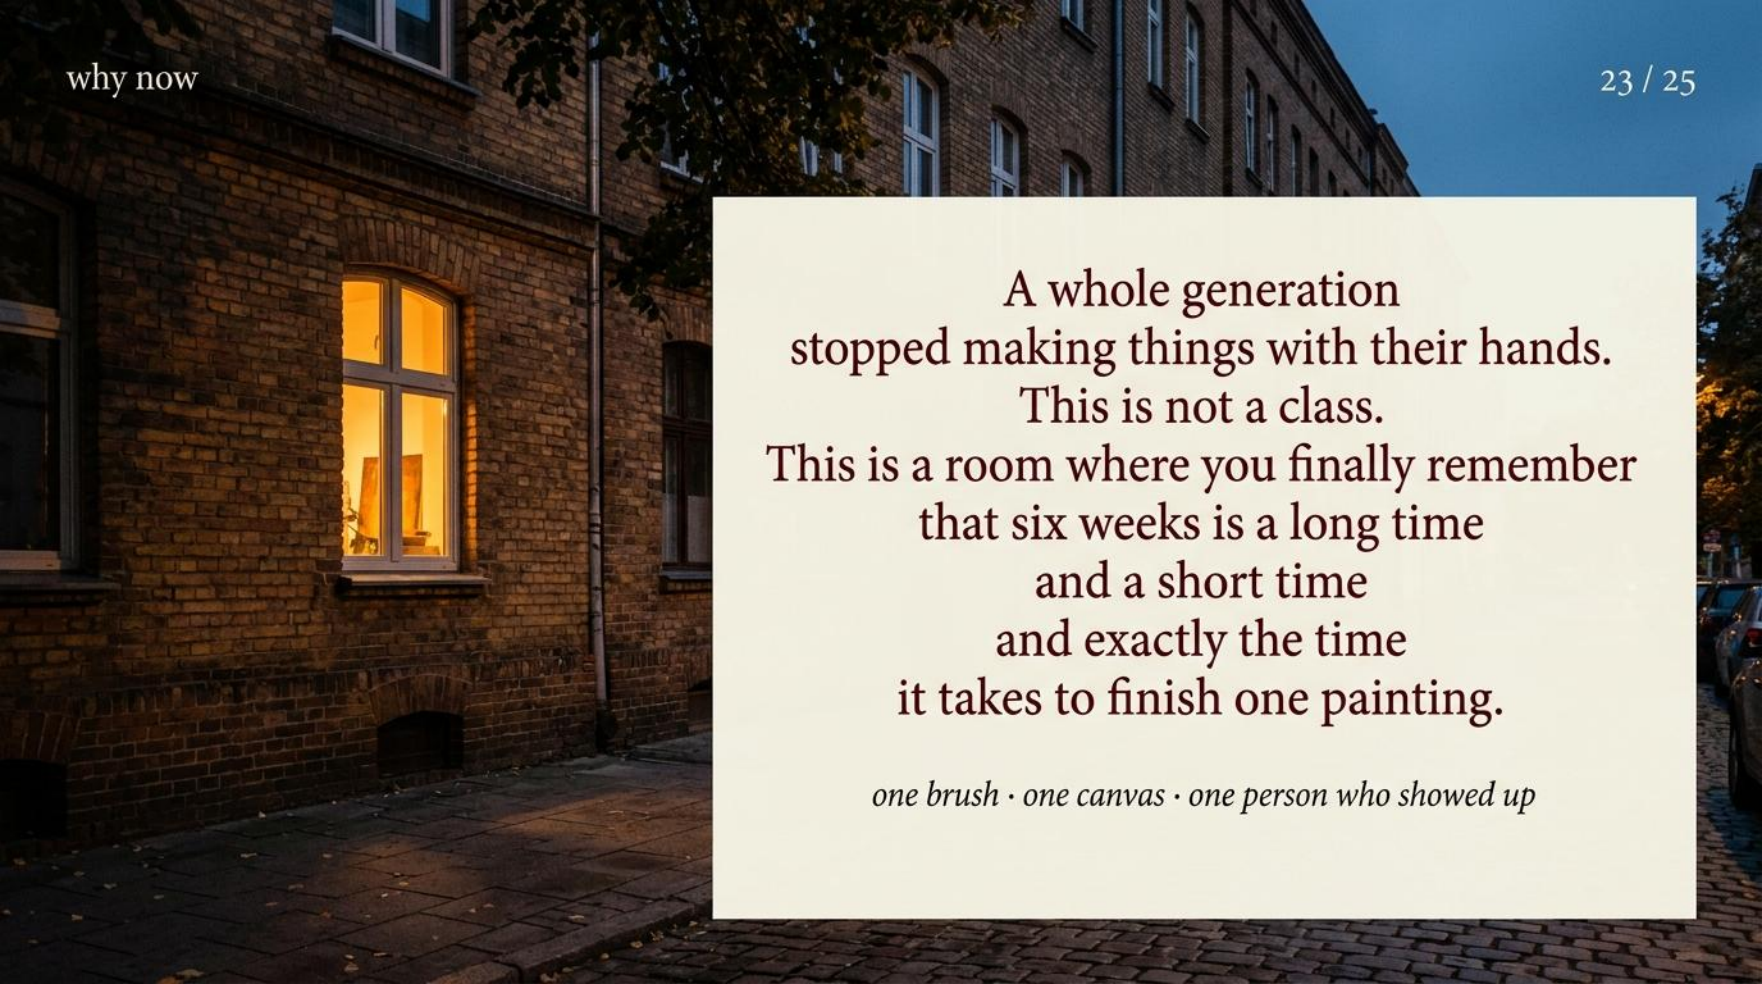
three in Praga · shared gift vouchers a painting hung at each one the studio smells of linseed oil · marketing smells the same

a cohort doesn't fill — four of six seats sold	we run it anyway for the four who came, and offer the empty seats at half price to regulars from the waitlist.
old Praga tenement · a pipe bursts in November	a documented insurance policy, a signed contract with a neighbourhood handyman, a 48-hour relocation plan to a partner studio two streets away.
a student stops coming in week 3	a handwritten note, not a refund template · a gentle invitation to finish the painting one weekend afternoon · no one leaves with half a canvas.

we plan for trouble so the room stays calm



A whole generation
stopped making things with their hands.
This is not a class.
This is a room where you finally remember that six weeks is a long time and a short time
and exactly the time
it takes to finish one painting.

one brush · one canvas · one person who showed up
