DRAM SIX · audience

Angus · Edinburgh · 54

Monthly Highland flight · keeps the same seat · never uses water · writes notes in his own pocket book.

Lena & Tom · Stockholm · visiting

Book the Island flight first night in town · take photos of the slate · buy one bottle to bring home.

Saoirse · Dublin · 42

Work trip twice a year · prefers Rare-cask flight · brings one colleague, always pays the bill.

core audience · 50 % locals · 50 % design-travellers · 21+ only

Evening slate

One flight per night chalked at the door. Names of the four drams and nothing else.

Booking site

Three seatings, six seats each. Prepaid. Email-only confirmation. No marketing push.

Instagram @dramsix

One slow reel weekly · a pour, a slate, a single note. Captions under 10 words.

Letter to regulars

A quarterly letter with the next 12 flights. Printed on cream, hand-addressed.

Alcohol licensing delays	Licensing lawyer engaged at W1. Dry-launch tasting format prepared as fallback for first 2 weeks if needed.
Rare-cask supply volatility	Three independent bottler contracts. 90-day reserve stock on top-10 SKUs. Transparent substitution policy.
Six seats · low throughput ceiling	Three seatings / night + Fri–Sat 4th late seating. Private-flight bookings for full-room nights.

Edinburgh has over a hundred whisky bars. None of them listens. DRAM SIX is six seats, one host, and four drams told like a short story. You sit, you nose, you water, you notice. No music, no menu theatre, no rush. Thirty minutes, then the door opens again.
