four channels · one voice: quiet, specific, Baltic.

RISKS & MITIGATIONS

AMBER SUPPLY VOLATILITY

raw Baltic amber prices fluctuate seasonally · storm yields vary.

sign annual contracts with two Gdańsk dredging cooperatives · keep 3-month rolling stock buffer · publish stone-provenance numbers to lock in premium tier.

LOW-SEASON SLUMP

November–February drop in cruise traffic and tourism.

launch members' club · winter engraving workshops · B2B corporate gifting programme (Gdańsk amber for executive gifts, €1k–€4k per order).

AUTHENTICITY COUNTERFEITING

regional souvenir market floods with pressed / dyed copal, erodes perceived value.

every piece receives UV-fluorescence + density test on camera; provenance card signed by master; IGG certification for premium pieces.

three risks · three honest answers · revisited quarterly.

WHY NOW

For 44 million years, Baltic amber has been waiting on this coast. For two hundred, Gdańsk has been shaping it into souvenirs. We think there is a third chapter: where the guest, not the shop, holds the stone. Where memory is not bought — it is made at the bench. Six seats. Ninety minutes. Light you can carry home.
