ANDREI

43 · Bucuresti

the only pair of hands

Fifteen years polishing other people's paint at a dealership on the outskirts. One day he listened to a vinyl record while working. The car, and his life, got better. This is what he built from that.

solo operator · 6 days/week · Mondays off for vinyl hunt

MOMENT · the six hours are over

I own three cars. Andrei only sees the 1972 Dacia. The other two can wait.

MIHAI · 58 · Bucharest · architect

When Bucharest gets loud, I drive three hours to leave my Mercedes in a courtyard that smells of candles.

IOANA · 34 · Cluj · gallerist

I'm buying a second apartment in Bucharest so I can bring my 250 SL here every summer.

PAOLO · 47 · Milano · architect

INSTAGRAM

One post a week. Always the car, never the face. Always the hands, never the caption.

NEWSLETTER

Quarterly. A photograph, a vinyl record, a thought. No prices, no bookings.

WAITING LIST

Six weeks booked. New appointments only on the first Monday of each month.

WORD OF MOUTH

Andrei does not chase clients. Clients bring friends. The gate is closed unless expected.

RISK Wealthy clients want same-day appointments; waiting list is a hard sell.

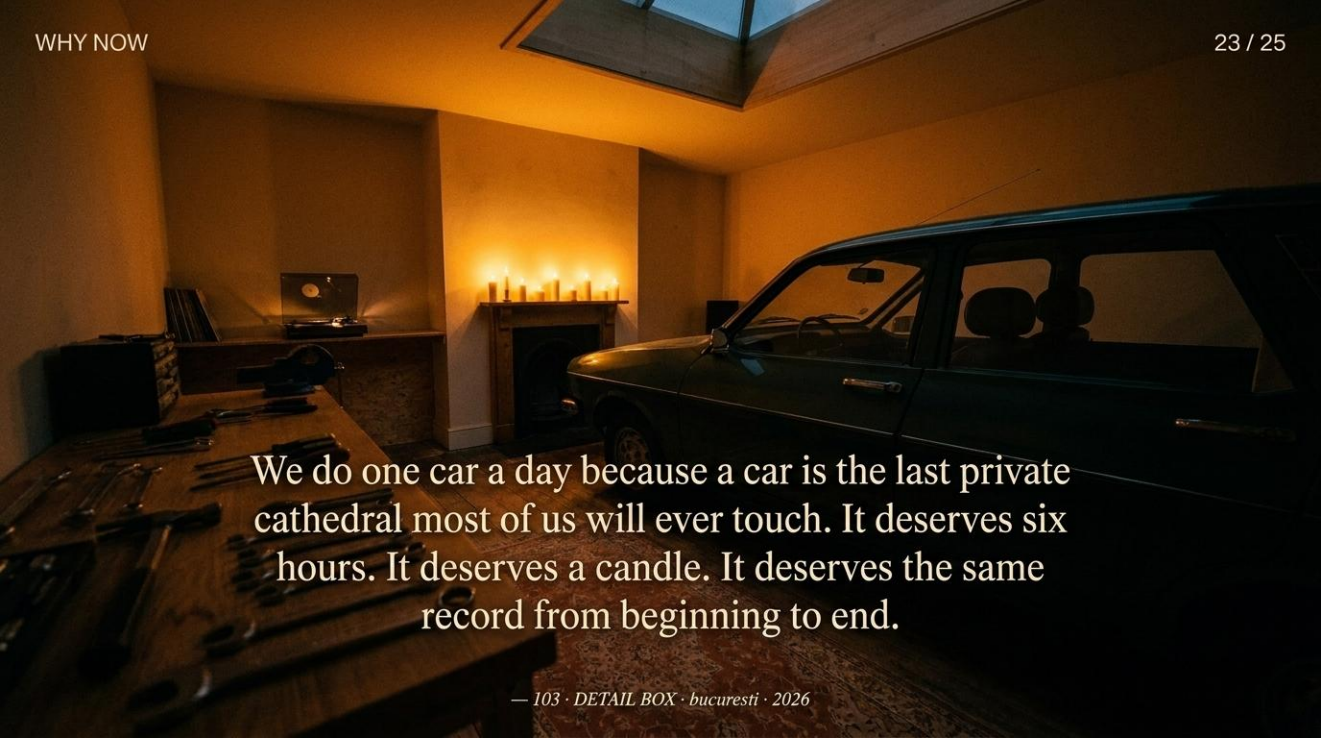
RESPONSE Price the scarcity. The 6-week queue is the product, not the bug. Membership priority for the Monthly Keeper tier.

RISK Solo operator bottleneck — if Andrei is sick, no revenue.

RESPONSE Contracted apprentice (Tudor, 28) trains Mondays without bookings. Insurance covers 4-week loss-of-income.

RISK Bucharest old-town courtyard lease precarious under UNESCO zoning.

RESPONSE 10-year lease signed with option to buy. Backup courtyard scouted in Cotroceni district if zoning shifts.



We do one car a day because a car is the last private cathedral most of us will ever touch. It deserves six hours. It deserves a candle. It deserves the same record from beginning to end.
