THE VOCABULARY

Nine spices. Ten curries. Endless mothers.

Every curry is a ratio.
A mother in Andheri cooks rajma with more cloves than a mother in Dadar.
We cook by weight, then by memory, never by recipe.

THE HAND BEHIND IT

Shalini Kulkarni · cook · founder

Thirty years cooking for her family of seven in Andheri, she knows how to feed ten tiffins like seventy — it is the same ratios, just more pans on the fire.

A helper, Ravi, joins her at 5 AM every day and stays till the last tiffin leaves.

1.0 FTE · COOK + FOUNDER
1.0 FTE · HELPER (RAVI)
EXTERNAL · DABBAWALA NETWORK (30+ RUNNERS)

He opens the clamp at 12:32. Home walks in through a steel door.

Three desks. Three hungers.

Three honest risks. Three patient answers.

RISK	ANSWER
Monsoon flooding closes Lower Parel for three days in July.	All suppliers within 800 m. Dabbawalas switch to waterproof cloth. Free credit for subscription customers.
Cook injury or family emergency — only one pair of hands.	Shalini's niece Meena trained on 5 of the 10 curries from month three. Built-in weekly rest Sunday.
Swiggy / Zomato underpricing the subscription.	We are not on aggregators. Hot-at-12:30 guarantee via dabbawala. Home food, not restaurant food.

We cook what our mothers cooked.

Because a mother cooked it for fifty years before us.

We pack ten curries, not one.

Because you did not choose your appetite at 10:30.

We never use a delivery app.

The dabbawala has carried tiffins through two world wars and one monsoon every year.

We open the steel in front of you.

Because cold curry is nobody's home food.
