JOANA OLIVEIRA · master artisan · 14 years painting · trained Fábrica Aleluia, Aveiro

THE KILN · 6 kW · Nabertherm · 40 tiles per firing · 900ºC

WHO COMES

INÊS · 34 · architect, Lisbon

Drives up monthly for private masterclass. Uses her own tiles in the kitchen of every renovation she designs.

PAULO & CARLA · 42 & 39 · Porto locals

Saturday workshop replaced date night. Now regulars — paint their anniversary tile each October.

HIROKO · 28 · Tokyo designer · 3-week residency
Found the studio through a 2am Instagram scroll. Flew to Porto for a 6-hour masterclass, stayed 10 days.

Kiln failure mid-firing — 40 tiles lost.	Electrical backup circuit. Annual element inspection. Two-batch firing schedule — never more than 20 commissioned tiles per firing. Insurance covers replacement.
Joana cannot work if hand injured — sole artisan.	Certified apprentice in final year at Aleluia works Saturdays and covers during absence. Pre-painted stock carries commissions for 3 weeks.
Tourist seasonality · November–February quiet.	Winter months focus on architect commissions + online tile sales. Private masterclasses priced 20% higher offset lower volume.

WHY NOW

Every factory-printed tile is the ghost of a painted one. Portugal still knows the difference, but barely. One brush, one cobalt stroke, one fire at nine hundred degrees — this is how a kitchen wall becomes a story a family tells. Eighteen square meters in Miragaia. One table. Four hundred years still working.
